Complementary Therapies

What are Complementary Therapies?

Complementary therapies are non-medical therapies that can help to reduce the stress and anxiety associated with cancer and other serious illnesses.

Haley also offers massage and Indian Head Massage (where the head, face and neck are massaged) and Reiki (a healing technique based on the principle that the therapist can channel energy into the patient by means of touch) and other bespoke treatments.

There is no charge for receiving approved Complementary Therapies provided by Hidden Beauty in association with Campden Home Nursing. We may need to contact your GP to ensure treatments are suitable Campden Home Nursing will fund an initial 6 sessions with Haley, after this time, future treatment provision will be reviewed.

Here are some comments from people who have benefitted from complementary therapy.

"I was diagnosed with stage 4 bowel cancer a year ago and I was recommended to see Haley from Hidden Beauty to try out Reiki.

The first few sessions were relaxing but I was not sure that much more was achieved. However, more recently I have discovered that when focus is directed, my breathlessness is eased and my leg ache has been alleviated. It's not a permanent fix, but even a few days of relief is better than nothing.

Whether it is the very friendly welcome at the salon, the calmness Haley exudes, or that the magic of Reiki is real, I would still thoroughly recommend giving it a try.

"Hayley gives me a facial with Reiki. It is totally relaxing and if I concentrate on the textures of the products used and the variety and pressures of the hand movements used it is a very mindful experience.

It is incredibly calming and shows immediate benefits on my speech, which is impacted by neurological problems.

I am very grateful for Campden Home Nursing for supporting a course of therapies for me.
